We urge you not to give in to Microsoft's competitors' unreasonable demands. Our country's increasing harshness towards corporations will not help anyone. Wouldn't we be much better off if families like the Kennedys had used their millions to go into business, thereby employing thousands of people, rather than going into government on the backs of the working class and impeding those who are employing us?

We are retired now, but feel we were much better served by those willing to create business than by politicians claiming to have the interests of the worker at heart while getting paid by our taxes.

Three cheers for Bill Gates, his vision and his courage.
